Product Description

Our Automatic Beehive requires less labor while providing more love for beekeeping. Simply turn the flow button and observe pure fresh honey flowing directly from the Langstroth beehive into your jar. This innovative system eliminates confusion, fuss, heavy work, and expensive processing equipment.

With a clear view of the final frame, you can monitor honey readiness without opening the hive. The extraction process is exceptionally mild, with bees barely noticing the procedure. Our revolutionary Flow system reduces pressure on bees during extraction while making the process easier for beekeepers.

The national beehive is crafted from high-quality Chinese fir wood, featuring excellent manual workmanship and fashionable design for exceptional durability. This product has been successfully exported to numerous countries including the USA, Latin American nations, Australia, Canada, and New Zealand.

This flow beehive is designed to be used with our plastic beehive frames flow foundation set. Each flow beehive requires one set of plastic honey flow foundation.
